Dr. J. W. Hake Gives Lecture About Physics

English Class Hears Lecture on The Comparison of The Physics of Eighteenth and Seventeenth Century.

Dr. J. W. Hake, physics instructor of the College, lectured to the English 150 class Tuesday, July 23, on Physics of the eighteenth century. Dr. Hake referred to the eighteenth century as a reaction to the supreme authority of the seventeenth century.

According to Dr. Hake the important physics was adorned with such names as Newton, Huygens, Euler, William Herschel, Fahrenheit, Watt, Count Rumford, Franklin and Volta, each experimenting in his field of physics.

Although the first experiments in electricity were performed in this period, the principal phase of experimentation in physics was light and heat. Newton and Huygens were the advocates of the two opposing theories of light. Huygens advocated the wave theory of light similar to the wave theory of sound, while Newton firmly clung to his corpuscular theory. Dr. Hake stated that the wave theory of Huygens is the one most generally accepted today. Moreover, it is thought that if Newton had had his eyesight, he would have seen the refraction of light and would have given up his corpuscular theory. Huygens was the only writer of the wave theory.

Dr. Hake stated that another development of light was in the making of lenses. Since Newton concluded that no lens could be free from color, he went to mirrors, rather than lenses. However, Euler made a lens of two kinds of glass and it is to him, we are indebted for the colorless lens. His telescope six feet long was far better than Huygen's which was 125 feet long. Reflectors were improved by Hadley and Herschel, but the largest "light grasper" made was by Lord Rosse of Ireland. This reflector was extraordinary for reflecting astronomical bodies, said Dr. Hake.

Dr. Hake stated that thermometers were invented in the eighteenth century. The scale first determined by the heat of the body and the freezing of water with ice and salt, and registered by the expansion and contraction of wine in a tube. However the successful thermometers, the ones used today were devised according to Stroomer and Celsius, the founders of the centigrade system, Reamur, and Fahrenheit. "A profit is not without honor save in his own country," so the systematic French accepted the centigrade system, the intricate English, the Fahrenheit scale.

The theories of heat were presented by Euler, who gave us the materialistic theory and George Stahl, professor of University of Halle, who gave us the combustible theory, although Count Rumford made much experimentation in heat, said Dr. Hake.

Dr. Hake mentioned a few of the electrical experiments of Benjamin Franklin, Stephen Gray, and Musschenbroek, Coulomb, Galvani, and Volta, and the inventions of the Leyden jar, Voltaic cell and Voltaic pile.

College High School Is of Highest Type

The College High School of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, which is approved by the State Department of Education, and which is on the approved list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, will be under the direction of Mr. Herbert Dieterich.

There is no tuition to pay; no books to buy, when attending the College High School. An incidental fee of five dollars includes fees for tickets to athletic events; for the yearbook "The Tower"; for the College newspaper; and for hospitalization in the St. Francis hospital, if needed.

A text book deposit of $5.00 will be required of the student, for the use of books, but $4.00 of this amount will be returned when the student returns the books in good condition.

The enrollment of the College High School will be limited. It is important to notice that all teachers will have the number of hours required of teachers in first class high schools. In addition, the supervision of the high school classes will be under the direction of the following members of the College faculty:

Ullis Hawkins ..... English
Carrie Hopkins ..... Foreign Languages
U. G. Whiffon ..... Industrial Arts

A library deposit of five dollars charged at the beginning of the term is refunded to the student when he withdraws from the College or when he completes the school term.

All College High School students will register at the College on Tuesday, September 11, 1928.

R. W. "Bill" Lowry, who attended the College in 1908 and 1909, was at the College July 25. With Mr. Lowry was his son, Raimen, a student in the high school at Chester, Illinois, of which high school Mr. Lowry is superintendent.

College Students See the Three Puppeteers

The "Three Puppeteers" presented a puppet and marionette play in the College Auditorium, Thursday evening, July 25. The players were from Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa. They are the only troupe at present using both the hand and string marionettes. They called the puppets the characters moved directly with the hand by placing the hand under the clothing of the character. The Marionettes are those lifeless characters manipulated from above by means of strings attached to the objects.

The company carries all their equipment, including the two stages, a puppet stage and marionette stage, and various lighting fixtures. The most interesting puppet show was a boxing bout and one of the characters hit the other one so hard the fight was ended. "Jack and the Beanstalk" was the most interesting marionette play, since the characters were made so life like. Another good dramatization was the skeleton dance. The skeleton's limbs would fly off, his head would rise, but he would continue to dance to the piano accompaniment from behind scenes until his limbs returned and then he sank back to earth.

The personnel of the troupe were O. L. Doane of Montezuma, Iowa; M. L. Hoxcox of Britt, Iowa; and Wm. Taylor, Konju, Korea. They were enroute from Leavenworth, Kansas via Chicago, camping along the road.

Pi Gamma Mu Is Host at Picnic and Initiation

Beta Chapter of the Social Science Fraternity Held Informal Initiation and Picnic, July 29.

Beta Chapter of the Pi Gamma Mu, the Social Science fraternity, had a picnic and initiation at the College Park on Monday afternoon from 4:30 to 7:00 p. m. About fifty members were in attendance. Games were played and a chicken lunch was served at six o'clock. Short talks were given to the initiates by Miss Jean Freeland, President of the fraternity, and by Professor T. H. Cook, faculty sponsor. Miss Freeland dwelt on the fact that July 29 was the Founder's Day for the fraternity at the College, the fraternity having been organized on July 29, 1927. Mr. Cook emphasized the ideals and principles for which Pi Gamma Mu stands.

Out of town members who returned for the picnic were Dorothy McCord, Shenandoah, Iowa; Hazel Hawkins, Jameson, Mo.; Florence Seat, Grant City, Mo.; and Gertrude Fuleher, Piper, Kansas.

Dr. Dildine Is Host to College Students

Dr. Dildine entertained about forty students at his home Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 10:30. The first part of the evening was spent in observing his many Chinese novelties. Each guest was given a slip of paper upon which he was to write the names of ten objects in the room. Nellie Harrold was given the prize of chop sticks. A chop stick relay was held between two groups with Claude Thompson and Paul Burks as captains.

The latter part of the evening was spent observing books and the characters of the Chinese alphabet. Dr. Dildine explained what some of the different characters meant and pronounced the words of different dialects. It was made more interesting when he related some personal experiences. Refreshments were served.

"Great Writers" Class Learns About Fine Art

Miss DeLuce Gives An Illustrated Lecture on the Fine Arts of the Eighteenth Century.

In a continuation of a previous discussion on "Fine Art in the Eighteenth Century," Miss Olive DeLuce gave a detailed discussion of the sculpturing, painting, and designing of the period. The lecture, for the "Great Writers" class and many others who were interested in the subject, was given in the art department on fourth floor, and was illustrated throughout by means of slides.

"France attracted many of the best painters, artists and portrait painters," said Miss DeLuce. French themes were of all types: court life, outdoor scenes, landscapes, classical themes, and scenes of people from the common walks of life. "Some were treated with delicate coloring and sentiment," added Miss DeLuce, and gave the well-known picture "Innocence," as an example. Much of the scenery was of stage type, and an especially interesting feature was the dress of the time, including ornate wigs, and costumes.

In England there arose a tendency for more originality. There was a lack of much good art, and a profusion of "surface painting." Gainsborough's "The Blue Boy" with the main subject in blue was shown; Joshua Reynolds, "The Three Graces," "The Strawberry Girl" and "The Age of Innocence" were examples of the painter's happy facility of handling the nature of children.

"Portrait painting received much attention during this century, some artists choosing to paint men, some to paint women, and others showing a tendency to criticize through character painting," Miss DeLuce explained.

Art in Holland, it was pointed out, was a rather barren field. Fruits and flowers "provided small themes for work there."

Furniture designs were classical. Sculptors made several statues of celebrities, among which were one of our own Washington, and one bust of Voltaire.

Miss Ruth Blanshan, instructor in the College, and Miss Maida Taylor drove to Grand Junction, Iowa, Friday evening of last week, and returned Sunday night. They also visited Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa, where Miss Blanshan received her A. B. and M. A. degrees.

Swimming Meet Is Held at Gymnasium

A swimming meet with Virginia Dean and Kathryn Lewis as captains of the two competing teams was held Tuesday evening, at 7:30 at the gymnasium. Kathryn Lewis' team won with 32 points. Virginia Dean's team scored 31 points.

About twenty girls competed. Any one who wished to enter the meet was allowed to do so.

turn. She will be at Macomb, Illinois, next year.

Mrs. Booth Makes Interesting Sketches

Many students and members of the faculty of the College have asked who made the poster advertising of the men's dinner, which was held Monday night of this week. The lady who so cleverly made the caricature sketch of Mr. F. Skaith, president of the Knights of The Hickory Stick Club is none other than Mrs. Wm. E. Booth whose husband is a member of the club and who is principal of the high school at Martinsville. Mrs. Booth was a student at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, when she met Mr. Booth, who was for three years in school at the University of Missouri. She likes this type of work and sometimes gives public programs, consisting of chalk talks and sketch work.

Committee No. 3 is considering special plans for promoting international understanding through athletic sports and other normal human relationships. Committee No. 4 is considering "without prejudice" military training in school and college and the use of abatement of incentives through education. Committee No. 5 is settling difficulties by peaceful means and of promoting the spirit of international cooperation.

"Persons interested in the development of understanding and goodwill through education" as well as persons directly connected with education were invited to attend the conference and to participate in its deliberations. Dr. Augustus O. Thomas, State Commissioner of Education for Maine, is President of the Federation and Prof. Charles H. Williams of the University of Missouri is Secretary.

Mr. Krause Lectured to Journalism Class

Chester Krause of the staff of the Maryville Daily Forum, talked to the journalism class Tuesday morning, July 30, concerning "Writing for The Sports Page for the newspaper."

Mr. Krause said that the morning editions of the city papers usually contained several pages of news concerning sports. He explained that the reason the sport pages of the papers are of so much general interest is because of the fact that heroes are continually being created in the sports articles. He said that to write successfully concerning sports one should know the sport or the game. Not only should the writer know the game, but he should know personally those participating. "Usually a paper will send a reporter along with the team or the contestants on trips, and thus he can become well acquainted with them and can then give the human interest touch to his sports article," said Mr. Krause. He showed how the sports writer is allowed to editorialize or express his own opinions in his writing, while the ordinary general news writer must stick to facts only.

Mr. Krause described the process through which a paper must go in order to get out the famous extra editions, for which our American cities are noted. He also explained to the class how the different news associations which are linked together throughout the country, function in quickly handling news.

Miss Shepherd Writes Concerning Her Trip

A card from Miss Grace M. Shepherd, who is spending the summer in Europe, was received by Darline Schneider a few days ago.

Miss Shepherd said she had a pleasant, uneventful trip on board the "Seydlitz," and that the sea had been rough only two days. She described some of the things she had seen as follows: "Friday the sea was one vast mirror, the only ripples were the ones made by our boat. I didn't know the sea could be so smooth. We saw the Emerald Isles this morning, such a beautiful green place. Everything was green clear to the water's edge. We now are in sight of land, chilly cliffs, lighthouses, not much beauty so far."

A later card showing the Houses of Parliament has been received. This card written July 5, says: "I am seated on a boat facing this beautiful tower waiting to go down the Thames to get a view of the embankment and other historical things of this old city. This morning we saw the horse guards exchange a page of ancient history. Tomorrow we are going to Parliament and thence up Fleet Street to some of the function in quickly handling news."

Dramatic Club Holds an Unusual Meeting

An unusual meeting of the Dramatic Club was held Tuesday night, July 30, in the auditorium, when two plays, "The Shepherd in the Distance," written by Holland Hudson, and "A Sunny Morning," written by Quinteros, were presented.

The Oriental pantomime, "The Shepherd in the Distance," directed by Frances Remus and Paschal Monk, of Miss Criswell's Play Production Course, was quite exceptional, a pantomime production. There were eleven characters in costume. All the dramatic interpretation was through the characters, their makeup, their actions to rhythm, stage settings and lights, since there were no lines or dialogue. This was a new undertaking of the club, but its success is attributed to the untiring efforts of the directors and cast. The directors were especially grateful to Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Dildine, who were so kind in lending a number of genuine Chinese costumes for the play. The costumes, which were so appropriate to the mood of the pantomime, were from the collection of Chinese costumes of Mr. and Mrs. Dildine.

The characters were: The Princess, Betty Sealeman; the Attendant, Margaret Hutchinson; the Slave, Aryana Freeland; the Wazir, (guardian of Princess), Olun Wilson; the Vizier, Lawrence Brown; the Nubian, Clarence Worley; the Shepherd, Martha Herwig; the Goat, Curtis Foreade; Ghurri-Wurri, (the beggar), Meryl Crawford; the Maker of sounds, Paschal Monk.

Because the Princess was neglected by her guardian all her life, she goes in quest of the Shepherd in the Distance. She encounters a few obstacles on the road, but finally gets to join him.

The scenes were alternated in front of the proscenium, a garden, and the stage proper, a distant scene. Each move was directed by a tap or a few notes from the violin or clarinet by the sound maker.

"A Sunny Morning," a Spanish one-act play, by the Quinteros brothers, was directed by Luther Blackwelder, also of Miss Criswell's class. The characters were: Don Gonzalo, an old man seventy years of age; Clinton Morris, his servant; Juanito, Lawrence Brown; Don Laura, an old lady seventy years old; Dorothea Cook; her maid Petar, Janice Pannon.

The setting was a scene in a park on a sunny morning. When Don Gonzalo comes into the park, he finds an old lady occupying the only seat in the park and is enraged because he has to sit beside her. However upon recounting a love affair of their younger days, they learn that they were old lovers and so come to be friends again.

The actors played their roles very well, drawing a few laughs from the audience. The movements of the actors were well defined to the action of the play.

Alumni Notes

Mr. Stephen G. LaMar, secretary of the Alumni Association of the College, wrote to several other Colleges in regard to the alumni records maintained in relation to the Alumni Associations. Various replies were received concerning records and all indicated that the alumni associations were playing a great part in the success of the various institutions. The following letter was sent to Mr. LaMar from the secretary of the General Alumni Association, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa:

Dear Mr. LaMar:
Yesterday, while I was out of the office, someone called and asked if we would be kind enough to send you information in regard to the alumni records maintained at this office. Though I am not exactly certain as to the sort of information you wish or what use you wish to make of it, I shall endeavor to give you some idea of what we do here.

We endeavor to have complete address files for all alumni. These files are maintained in alphabetical order, geographical order and by classes. In these files we keep not only business addresses but home addresses, whenever we can obtain both, also, in these files we attempt to keep records of ex-students as well as graduates, since at Iowa State College, we consider everyone who has ever been a bona fide student an alumnus of the college.

While the three main files mentioned above are the backbone of the entire alumni work, there are many other central files which are maintained such as: the membership file in the alumni association, divided, as to life members and annual members; the life membership file under Memorial Union, divided as to paid in full and those still unpaid; the mailing list for the Alumnus and so on.

One rather important file we endeavor to keep up in this office is what we call the personal file. It is a file in which we collect and save all material, newspaper clippings and pictures of alumni, this material we file by name arranged alphabetically.

If there is more information you wish or if there is more detail on some part of the information which is given that you would like, please write me. I note that you are not a member of the alumni association, and therefore, do not have the alumni magazine, regularly. I wonder if you would not like to ally yourself with the association and thus receive the Alumnus, regularly, every month. The annual dues are $3.00 and may be paid at any time.

However, whether you are a member of the alumni association or not, please bear in mind that you are an alumnus of Iowa State College and that we shall be happy to serve you in any way possible at any time.

Very truly yours,
H. E. PRIDE, Gen. secretary

The Northwestern University General Alumni Association sent the following letter to all the old graduates just before Alumni Day:

Fellow Alumnus:
Saturday, June 15th, is Alumni Day. On that day old college friends of yours will be walking about the Evanston Campus looking for you. That is the significance of the day for you and the one best reason for your being there.

You and your classmates will meet on the Campus in the morning; line up and be ready when the parade starts at 12:30; lunch and visit at the Pat-ten Gym; watch the games or take part in them; take tea with the Associated Alumnus on the South Campus; see everybody at the All-University

Dinner at the North Shore Hotel; extend a hand and a heart-warm greeting to our great President, chief of all N. U. Alumni—

Or do just as you please. The day is yours; the campus is yours; Evanston, the Lake, the old oaks, and June are yours.

The next day will be Baccalaureate Sunday; then will come Commencement on Monday. Come prepared to stay over the week-end. Arrangements have been made by the Associate Alumnus for alumnus, either alone or accompanied by their husbands, to occupy rooms at Willard Hall without charge.

For reservations write to Miss Alice Crabill, House Director, Willard Hall, Evanston, Illinois, before June 15th.

For Northwestern always,
LESLIE M. GOODER, Pres.

P. S. For those who receive the Alumni News, Alumni Day Comes every month with news of Northwestern and of old classmates. Are you getting yours? Only $3.00.

The alumni association of the University has charge of the new administrative office which has recently been established. The work of the office has to do with the following: The placement of teachers, the placement of recent graduates in business, the placement of students in part time positions while in residence, the vocational guidance of undergraduates who have not decided upon their careers.

The '29 graduates of the University of Missouri gave $1000 as a start for an alumni endowment fund.

The Alumni Association of Teachers College, Emporia, now carries on the following activities in the interest of the school:

Publication of the Alumni News, the official magazine, which is now read by three thousand graduates and former students.
The Annual Commencement Dinner on Commencement Day; the climax of the year's work; the largest gathering during the year of alumni, faculty, and friends.

The Student Alumni Council consisting of three students from each college class and the members of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, which seeks to further the plans of the school and foster understanding and cooperation among students, faculty, and alumni.

Close Cooperation with the Appointment Bureau in order to assure good positions for all deserving graduates.
Scholarships for students who have made outstanding records in high school and who promise success as teachers.

Bureau of Records which compiles and publishes the alumni catalog, keeps the chronology of major campus events and serves as a clearing house for all information concerning alumni.

Concerning Membership in the Alumni Association.

The graduates of a college, not the buildings and equipment, are its most important assets. Upon the work they do, the standards they set, the interest and devotion they manifest in their alma mater depend her place and power among educational institutions. No institution can be strong whose alumni exhibit no lively interest in her problems and possibilities.

Alumni can do something for their school as individuals but they can do vastly more when organized. This applies with special force to teachers colleges, since by organized cooperation they can assist each other most effectively in seeking new and better positions. The Alumni Association is an index of the spirit and attitude of graduates toward the school. Loyal alumni through the Alumni Association seek to keep in touch with the activities and plans of the school and to give back in some small measure for what they have so liberally received during their student days.—(Emporia Teachers College).

The winners in the second round of the girls' tennis matches being held at the College, are as follows: F. Croy, L. Burke, B. J. West, M. Lyle, I. Geyer, M. Nichols, R. Minnick, and B. Feigley.

Student, who was given Kilpatrick as a reference, said to his neighbor, "Huh! They were trying to kill that bird when I was here in school five years ago. Isn't he dead yet?"

Commerce News

The initiation banquet of the Beta Chapter of the Pi Omega Pi, honorary commercial fraternity, was given at Hotel Linville, Thursday, July 25. Those initiated into the organization were: Mrs. Boatman, Mr. Newcomb, Mr. Parker, Imogene Woolf, Katherine Brown, Margaret Johnson, and Floyd Moore. Eleanor Hastings was admitted as a pledge.

At the banquet, the idea of the flight of an aeroplane was carried out in the toast and the programs. Ruth Hughes, who acted as toastmistress, added much to the originality and interest of the program in the opinion of all who were present. The toasts were:

Passengers—Mabel Clair Winburn.
The Take-off—Floyd Moore.
The Motor—Quartette: Chilton Ross, Floyd Moore, Mr. Parker, and Clun Wilson.

The Pilots—Helen Tobow.

Three Examiners in School

There are three examiners in school: Nellie Harrold, Virginia Dean, and Florence Prather. Last year there were only two, Lorene Bruckner, and Marie Changler. These examiners are the only people besides the field workers who can give life saving tests. The tests are given to them by the Field Representative of the Red Cross. Any person taking this test must be over twenty-one years of age, and interested in life saving work. After obtaining the title of "examiner" they are entitled to give tests to different students in College, both men and women.

Easily Made Frozen Desserts

Frozen desserts require very little work on the part of the housewife who is lucky enough to have an automatic refrigerator to stand by her through the hot weather. Most of their preparation is done for her in the dry, cold depths of the refrigerator pans, no more laboring with an ice-cream freezer Sunday morning!

Success in making frozen desserts in a gas or electric refrigerator depends not so much on luck as it does on learning what the refrigerator will do best and how long it takes to do it. That means trying out the recipes for frozen dishes which are found in the newspapers, magazines, and booklets prepared by domestic experts of the refrigerator companies. It means, also, considering the weather, when testing results, and noting how often and how long the refrigerator has been opened during the freezing process, and whether or not all liquids on the refrigerator shelves are carefully covered. Moist air takes more gas or electricity for maintaining a low temperature; it pays to keep the refrigerator atmosphere dry. A little care in such details will result in actual savings in running cost and help make the refrigerator pay for itself more quickly.

Here is a favorite frozen dessert which has been carefully tested with a gas refrigerator:

Banana Apricot Mousse

1 cup banana pulp (2 bananas)
¾ cup apricot pulp.
4-½ cup powdered sugar.
3 tablespoons lemon juice (½ lemon)
¾ cup apricot juice.

Salt.
1 cup cream.
Mash banana with fork. Press canned apricots through a sieve; add to the banana pulp. Add lemon juice, apricot juice, sugar and salt, and beat well. Whip cream and fold into the first mixture. Put in two refrigerator pans and freeze three to four hours.—Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., 383 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Mr. E. H. Barbee, superintendent of the St. Joseph school system and member of the college faculty this summer, was the guest of Olin Teasley, Friday evening, July 26, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Teasley of Grant City.

BASEBALL

Maryville won the baseball game played between the Maryville team and Fort Omaha on the College diamond, July 31, by a score of eight to nothing. Thorburn and Castle served as battery for Maryville while Duster and Moore started as Omaha's battery. Clark was substituted for Duster in the eighth inning.

Neither team scored until the last half of the fourth inning when H. Fisher knocked a home run and F. Dan-jels batted out a three bagger and came in home on a bunt by Burks. In the sixth inning, Daniels again hit a three bagger and came home on a sacrifice bunt by Burks. Other scores for the game were made by Barnhouse who ran for Castle, Finley who was substituted for Barnes, Thorburn, Daniels, and Burks.

Authority on Finance.

Hubby; "I can't raise $100—that's all there is to it. I received a notice this morning from my bank about being overdrawn."
Wife; "Well, can't you try some other bank? They can't all be overdrawn."

Girls at Dormitory Hold Party July 23

Boys were barred from the precincts of Residence Hall at nine-thirty, Tuesday evening, July 23, when the doors were locked, lights dimmed and the rugs rolled for the "robe a nuit" party.

Dancing and stunts of various sorts were enjoyed, and when every girl had appeased her appetite with ice cream cones, the party dispersed.

The party was planned by the Residence Hall executive board, of which the following are members: president, Ruby Doak; vice-president, Helen White; secretary, Margaret Ann Sillers; treasurer, Claribel Mahaffie.

He had choked her; he had killed her. There could be no doubt about it. He listened to her dying gasp; she was still and cold—cold as the hands of death.

Yet, in his fury, he was not convinced. He stepped on her—stepped on her again, with his big, heavy foot. A faint gasp—was she groaning? No, she was still dead.

"Darn that engine," he muttered, gasp.

Topic Discussed by the College Christian Endeavor.

Myrie Lyle led the College Christian Endeavor Society at the Christian Church on Sunday evening, July 28th. The topic was "Myself and Other Nations." Short talks were given by Ola Turner, Josephine Sherman, Claire O'Brien, and O. Myking Melhus.

In her remarks Miss Lyle emphasized that one of the three points stressed at the recent International Christian Endeavor Society convention at Kansas City was better international relations as the best guarantee for World Peace.

Miss Turner said, "We all want peace. When we are told by a calm thinker like Lord Bryce, 'We must destroy war or war will destroy us,' and by statesmen such as Lloyd George, 'If this war is not the last, then the next will leave the world in ashes,' and further that in the opinion of these and many other serious and solid thinkers our civilization cannot stand the shock of another war, that all that has been built up in industry, science, art, culture, through all these generations will be offered as a burnt sacrifice on the altar of Mars and we shall revert to the jungle—of course we want peace."

"When we realize that another war will be of unbelievable deadliness," Miss Turner continued, "that poisonous gases will be thrown from the air on defenseless cities, that front-line trenches will be everywhere, that there will be no noncombatants, but that women and children as well as men will be exposed to all its horrors—of course we want peace."

"A speaker said recently that the monument to the Unknown Soldier was a monument to defeated men, not meaning, of course, that they were defeated on the field of battle, but referring to the ultimate thing for which they fought—to end militarism and to end war. Have these ends really been achieved? That these objectives have not been achieved is no fault of those who fought, but ours for we have failed to keep faith. Had we put one-tenth the effort and sacrifice into securing the peace that they did in winning the war, the result would not now be in doubt. How can people be so blind as to think they are honoring these boys by perpetuating the system they gave their all to destroy?"

In her talk Miss Sherman said, "Prepare for Peace! How obviously common sense is that statement, and yet how at variance with what we have been taught and endeavored to believe through all these ages. In an ordered world one gets what he prepares for. One does not prepare for one thing in order to get another. The lesson of history is surely plain that preparation for war brings war sooner or later."

Miss Sherman continued, "President Coolidge said, 'In spite of all arguments in favor of great military forces, no nation ever had an army large enough to guarantee it against attack in time of peace or to assure its victory in time of war. No nation ever will.' Moreover, large armaments are inevitably provocative, productive of fear, suspicion, and misunderstanding, and tend to result in rivalry and armament competition that has only one possible ultimate result, namely war, besides constituting a burden on men's shoulders grievous to be borne."

"Just at present," Miss Sherman declared, "the world is spending $3,500,000,000 a year on armaments, which is equal to $2 a head or $10 a family for the whole human race. Here in the United States Secretary Mellon informs us that 82 per cent of all our national taxes are due to war. Surely there should be intelligence enough today—not to speak of morality—to find some way of relieving mankind of this terrific burden and turning into constructive and productive channels a large part of this huge sum. If we would prepare for peace, then we must all cut down our armaments as President Hoover advocates."

Miss O'Brien said, "A patriotism that scorns other races, looks condescendingly on other nations, is touchy about its own rights and prates about 'absolute sovereignty,' is the greatest single danger to the peace of the world today. Not that we would, if we could, abolish patriotism, but we would refine and perfect it. We would direct it toward more worthy ends. What makes a country great is not its material riches, physical power, or military prowess, but rather its contribution to science, art and culture. Instead of the childish and primitive desire to 'lick the world,' we should aim at making our country worthy of honor by its contributions to mankind."

Miss Anne Stowell, former house director of Residence Hall, has been appointed manager of a new ten story Y. W. C. A. building in Detroit, Michigan.

Welsh Play Is Given on Monday, July 29

At the meeting of the Dramatic Club, Monday night, July 29, Lucille Dougherty, member of Miss Criswell's play production class, presented a one-act Welsh play, "Merry, Merry Cuckoo," by Jeanette Marks. The cast for the play was: Annie Dalben, Lois Dakan; David Dalben, Wilbur Pettigrew; Pastor Morris, Clarence Worley; Lawery Pritchard, Mary Finnacle; Guto Pritchard, Luther Blackwelder.

The settings was laid in the yard of a Welsh home at about six o'clock p. m. The scene was well represented and the lights were very effective. The actors played their parts well.

David Dalben, an old man, is at the verge of death. His wife, Annie, wishes for the cuckoo to sing because she feels that it will cause her husband to regain his health. As the cuckoo did not sing, Annie tried to imitate the cuckoo, but in spite of her efforts and the efforts of Pastor Morris to save David, David did die.

A group of college students gave an entertaining program of music and readings at Skidmore in the M. E. Church, Friday evening, July 26.

The proceeds of the program went to make up a deficit in chautauqua funds this year. Before the program a dinner bridge party was held at the home of Vernon Barrett.

The program consisted of soprano solos by Katherine Gray, Eleanor Montgomery, and Paschal Monk; baritone solos, Paschal Monk; tenor solos, Vernon Barrett; violin solo, Irma Geyer; trombone solo, Luther Blackwelder; readings, Eleanor Sewell.

Others who attended the dinner party were Margaret Conner and Helen McMahon.

Mr. C. W. Withington, instructor in agriculture, and horticulture, will not return. He is with the Kelsey Nursery Company of St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Edith A. Barnard, who has been in of Women at the College for the last six years, will do advanced work at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, Michigan, next year. Miss Barnard has her M. A. degree from Teachers College Columbia University, New York. For three years she was on the faculty there. Miss Barnard said that while she had not definitely decided she thinks her major advanced work will be either in Education or English.

News About College

Miss Nellie Harrold will hold a meeting among her three classes. The captain of the 2:40 class is Freda P. The advanced classes will compete in diving, breast stroke, side stroke, stroke, surface dive, and back side stroke for speed. This meet will be held for the entertainment of persons in class on Tuesday evening, July 30.

The Student Council of the College placed a beautiful new walnut dishinet, two more new chairs and six tables in Social Hall. The articles were purchased with the funds received in the Campus Comedies last year.

Mr. Leon Ungles whose home is at Highland, Missouri, was president and Herman Scott, whose home is at Ridge, Missouri, was the treasurer of the student organization.

Miss Barnard has received a letter from Miss Hopkins, who has been on leave of absence this summer. Miss Hopkins spent the first five weeks of summer in Denver, Colorado, and Lincoln, Nebraska. The last few weeks she has been in school at Chicago University. She lives three weeks from Miss Helwig and sees her frequently.

She says that the work is very pleasant, although the heat is intense.

The class in Fine Arts 81 has a display of batik work, wood block print, and tie and die work in the display case on the second floor.

Mr. Cooper's class in Tests and Measurements gave intelligence and movement tests to the pupils of the Training School.

She: Would you be willing to stop smoking for me?
He: Who said I was smoking for me?
